

TITLE IX REGULATION

“No person in the United States shall, on the basis of sex; be excluded from participation in, be denied the benefits of, or be subjected to discrimination under any educational program or activity receiving Federal financial assistance.”

-Title IX of the Education Amendments of 1972 to the 1964 Civil Rights Act

The University is responsible for:

- Providing immediate action upon notification of sexual violence
- Disseminating a notice of nondiscrimination
- Designating at least one employee as Title IX Coordinator
- Adopting and publishing grievance procedures
- Implementing training and education programs
- Providing supportive remedies to the survivor and respondent

Currently:

- Title IX Regulation is in compliance with federal guidelines
- Training has begun
- We continue to conduct Title IX workshops for our students and employees

CLOSING

FLORIDA A&M UNIVERSITY

Founded in 1887 as the State Normal College for Colored Students, Florida Agricultural and Mechanical University (FAMU) is the only historically state supported educational facility for African Americans in Florida. It has always been co-educational. In 1890, the second Morrill Act was passed. This enabled the school to become the Black Land Grant College for the State of Florida. In 1891, the college was moved from its original location west of town to its present location which was once the site of "Highwood," Territorial Governor W.P. Duval's slave plantation. The site is one of the highest hills in Tallahassee. The school was known as Florida A&M College from 1909 until 1953 when it attained university status.